Points of suggestions for a bilateral cooperation agreement:

- Collective study of judicial decisions in cases from both countries
- Study of what, how and why to instigate the implementation of international court dialogue, with direct application in priority situations in Brazil (e.g. in themes of socio-environmental conflicts in the Amazon, water and food security and the health of vulnerable communities and traditional peoples);
- Research of Brazilian cases with a sentence handed down by the Brazilian Judiciary
- Research of Brazilian cases with reparations under supervision (e.g.: quilombola community of Alcântara and the case of the Xucuru Indigenous People for Free, Prior and Informed Consent)

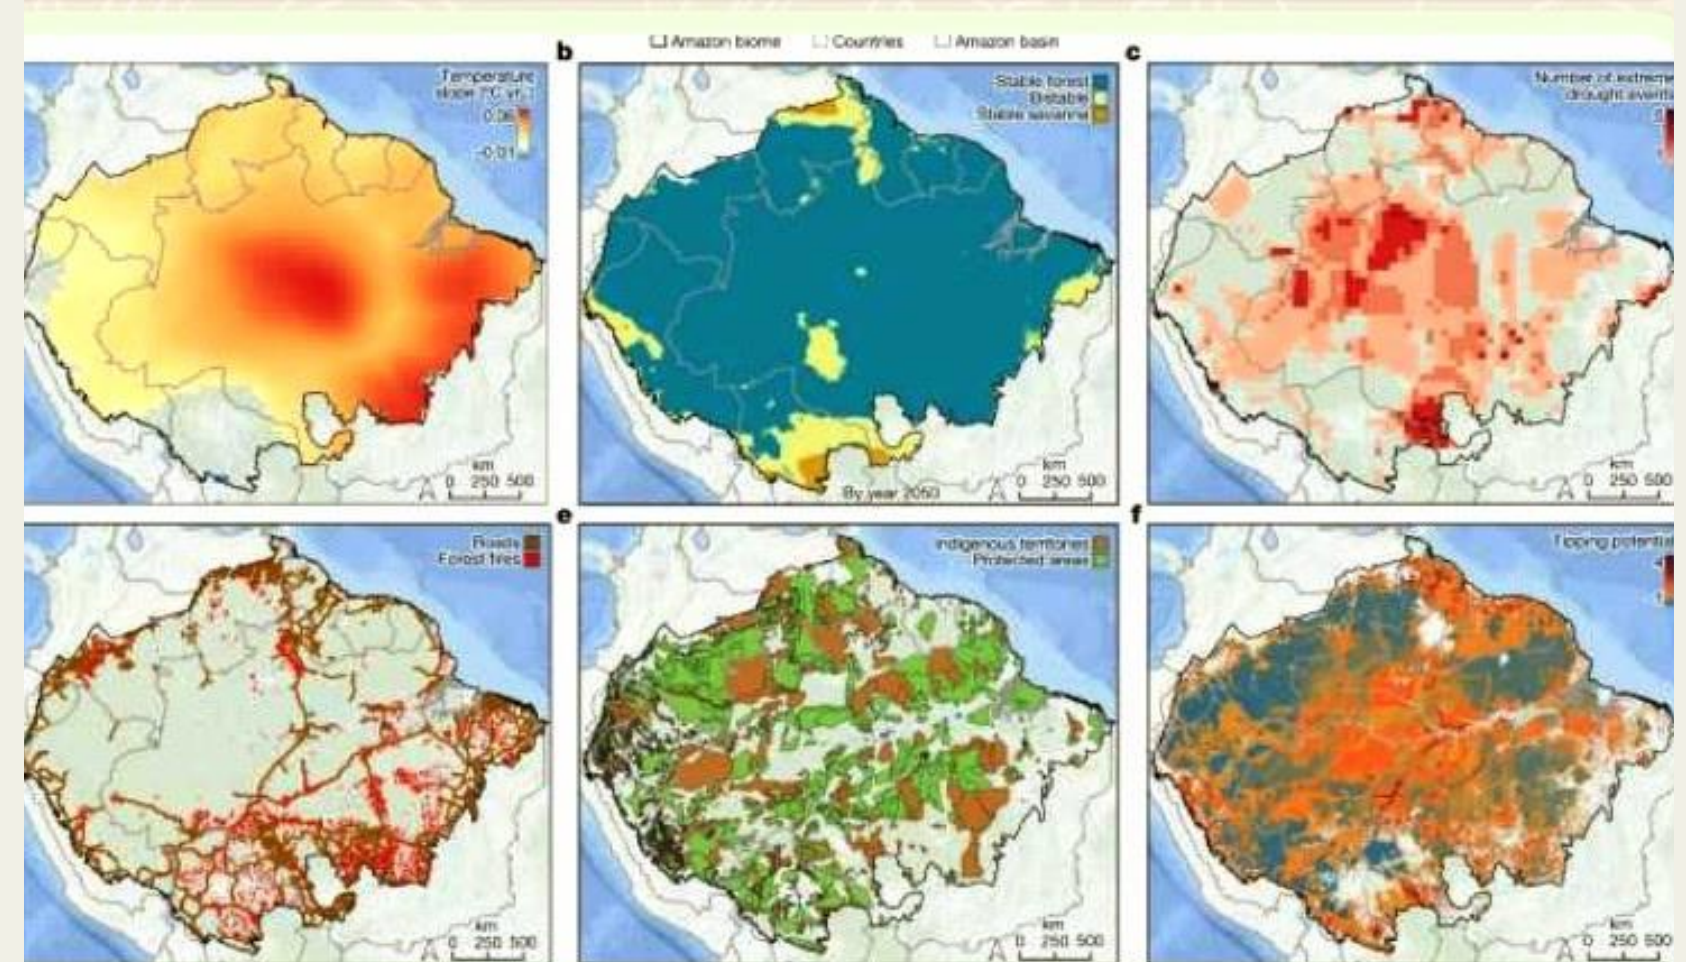

Points of suggestions for a bilateral cooperation agreement:

- Research of almost 90 reparations ordered by the Court
- Research of pending repairs
- Study of formal paths for the control of conventionality, court dialogues and social participation justice in Brazilian courts (e.g. recommendations from the National Council of the Public Ministry and the Brazilian National Council of Justice)
- Carry out exchange and cooperation programs for graduate courses in Brazil and abroad (Germany)
- Joint publications in both countries (Germany and Brazil)

Possible themes for joint publications: legal aspects of the crisis that puts the largest tropical forest on the planet at imminent risk

"The possibility that the Amazon forest system could soon reach a tipping point, inducing large-scale collapse, has raised global concern. For 65 million years, Amazonian forests remained relatively resilient to climatic variability. Now, the region is increasingly exposed to unprecedented stress from warming temperatures, extreme droughts, deforestation and fires, even in central and remote parts of the system" (Nature, 2024).

Ideas for a joint paper on the topic:

- Equation: hypervulnerability + risks – governance = needs for new and more effective safeguards
- According to decisions of the Courts (Inter-American Court of Human Rights and the German Federal Constitutional Court), the Brazilian State must protect victims, not only through compliance with legislation and justice, but also through executive and judicial actions, within the scope of the order constitutional.

Ideas for a joint paper on the topic:

- Appreciation of the ESG (environmental, social, governance) factor, clearly aimed at reducing environmental and social impacts.
- The integration of a gender perspective in water resources management aims to ensure that the experiences and concerns of men and women are part of the preparation, implementation, control and evaluation of water policies and programs in the Legal Amazon.
